

2x10

TWO TIMES TEN

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF THE MAINE ARTS COMMISSION'S
TRADITIONAL ARTS APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM

LEFT TO RIGHT , TOP TO BOTTOM:

Master Penobscot basketmakers Madeline and Billy Shay, left, with apprentice Barry Dana.
Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Passamaquoddy basket-maker Gal Frey. Photo by Peggy McKenna

Cambodian wedding, Portland. Photo by Charlotte Agell

Basket by Paula Thorne. Photo by Peter Dembski

Angela Barnes, Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker, right, with Jodi Mcphail, apprentice.
Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Basket by Molly Neptune Parker. Photo by Peter Dembski

Doris Chapman, Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Master Acadian singer Ida Roy with Sarah Roy, apprentice. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Master Micmac wood-carver Wilfred Sanipass with John Philbrook, apprentice.
Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Basket by Paula Thorne. Photo by Peter Dembski

Theresa Gardner, Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker, right, with Erin Barnes, apprentice.
Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Sylvia Gabriel. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Theresa Gardner's hands. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Jeremy Frey, left, Gal Frey, center, Gabriel Frey, right. Photo by Peggy McKenna

Thomas Cote with Ellyzabeth S. Bencivenga apprentice. Photo by Peter Dembski

Basket by Jeremy Frey. Photo by Peggy McKenna

FRONT COVER:

Detail of basket by Molly Neptune Parker. Photo by Peter Dembski

2X10

TWO TIMES TEN

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF THE MAINE ARTS COMMISSION'S

TRADITIONAL ARTS APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM

"The Maine Arts Commission is enormously proud of its long-standing support for traditional arts in Maine, and in 2010 we celebrate the 20th anniversary of one of the agency's foremost traditional arts programs.

"The Maine Arts Commission's Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program has enabled the traditional arts to continue to be passed down through the generations. For those of us who have worked at the Maine Arts Commission over the last 20 years, it has been a great privilege and joy to meet and learn from our rich abundance of tradition bearing masters and their apprentices."

Donna McNeil

Director, Maine Arts Commission

Quebecois wood carving, Franco-American fiddling, Wabanaki basket-making—every community has cultural traditions worth preserving. These arts are passed down informally, face-to-face, from elder to youth, master to apprentice. Honoring this heritage, the Maine Arts Commission began the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program in 1990 with the generous support from the National Endowment for the Arts, Folk and Traditional Arts program.

Now in its 20th year, the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program has supported over 100 apprenticeships. Based on experience and commitment to their art, master artists select an apprentice to teach for an extended period of time, usually a year. More than just one-on-one instruction, apprenticeships help communities maintain their cultural traditions. Often recognized as the ones who are "doing it right," traditional artists draw on a complex set of skills acquired over a lifetime of practice. Such mastery calls for a deep understanding of natural materials, place and cultural practices.

Two×Ten features 10 profiles of master artists and their apprentices who have generously given their time and expertise. Whether it's at the kitchen table, in the woods or on a dance floor, each apprenticeship artfully balances skill, creativity and tradition. Together, these masters and their apprentices are part of our living artistic heritage, reminding us all of the many creative ways to work and live in Maine.

Kathleen Mundell

Traditional Arts Specialist

Watie Akins, Penobscot Drummer and Singer

APPRENTICE: JAMES NEPTUNE

Apprentice James Neptune (left) with Watie Akins (right). Photo by Peter Dembski

"Among all the indigenous peoples of the world, the drum is the center of all songs. The sound of the drum brings excitement, strength and completeness to the songs. It is Mother Earth's heartbeat giving her approval to those living upon her.

I was born on the Penobscot Reservation at Panawampskeag, now called Indian Island, Maine. As a child, I participated in many community pageants and performed in some shows on the tribal stage. When I moved back to the reservation 30 years ago, I relearned the old pageant music and began to use the hand drum and shaker. Since returning to Maine, I yearned to know more of my culture and focused my interests in that direction. One aspect of my culture that spoke to me was the music, and I have concentrated on this knowledge exclusively for nearly eight years... It seems like such a small thing, but it strengthens the culture and keeps the traditional songs alive!"

—Watie Akins

Clara Neptune Keezer, Passamaquoddy Basketmaker

APPRENTICES: PAUL "ROCKY" KEEZER, CYRIL FRANCIS, M. LOLA-NICHOLAS, KENNY KEEZER

Cyril Francis, left, with Clara Neptune Keezer. Photo by Jere DeWaters

"t pleases me to be able to teach this valuable art of basket-making to those who are willing to learn. I have to say that the best award I am thankful for is the knowledge my mom and grandmas gave me while growing up."—Clara Neptune Keezer

The intricate and overlapping relationships of elder and novice, parent and child, friend and neighbors, are constantly at play as techniques and creative ideas are exchanged through apprenticeships. A recognized master in the art of Passamaquoddy fancy ash and sweetgrass basket-making, Clara Neptune Keezer has helped shape a whole new generation of basketmakers. Born into the tradition, at the Passamaquoddy community in Pleasant Point, Clara Keezer's grandparents and great-grandparents were all gifted sweetgrass and ash basketmakers. A master teacher in the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program for over 15 years, Clara was awarded a National Heritage Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts in 2002.

Thomas Cote, Acadian Wood Carving

APPRENTICES: JESSICA STACKHOUSE, TRACI WEATHERSHED, ELLYZABETH S. BENCIVENGA

Thomas Cote holding a carved wooden chain. Photo by Peter Dembski

"I want to teach apprentices that carvers have a tradition of dealing with the shaping of dull, common, and ordinary things into objects of interest and value using raw materials to enrich the lives of family and friends. This was an important part of the Acadians' tradition.

Carvers made items that were useful for everyday living from spoons to cookie boards to molding used in homes. They also made items that were inspirational, like the carved altars in the local churches that depicted local saints and religious figures. I hope to feed my apprentices' enthusiasm for their cultural heritage through this craft and to teach a love of the natural world. I want my apprentices to be inspired by the same types of environment that inspired the four generations of carvers before them." —Thomas Cote

Cynthia Larock and Benoit Bourque dancing. Photo by Jere DeWaters

Benoit Bourque, Quebecois Step Dancing

APPRENTICE : CYNTHIA LAROCK

Cynthia Larock, Quebecois Step Dancing

APPRENTICES: GABRIEL JACQUES, JESSIE GAGNE-HALL,
DONNA CASAVANT

Cynthia Larock with apprentice Gabriel Jacques

7

"t was a discovery. This is the stuff of my home community, Lewiston, Maine. Percussive dance is like a language where you have distinctive dialects.

I see it like preserving a language. I think it's valuable for the Franco-American community to take notice of it and appreciate this heritage. My growth as a developing artist was immeasurably enhanced by my work with Benoit Bourque. I am now proficient enough so that I can perform and teach it as well, and now I am surrounded by a solid core of step dance compatriots."
—Cynthia Larock, 1994

Through apprenticeship, traditions that might have disappeared find new teachers and audiences. In the early days of the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program, Cynthia Larock apprenticed with master French-Canadian step dancer Benoit Bourque. Committed to sharing with others what she has learned, Cynthia is now organizing community dances for the Franco-American community and is teaching her own apprentices.

Master Penobscot basketmakers Madeline and Billy Shay. Photo by Cedric Chatterley.

Madeline Tomer Shay, Penobscot Basket-Making

APPRENTICES: THERESA SECORD, CAROL DANA, BARRY DANA

Theresa Secord, Penobscot Basket-Making

APPRENTICES: JILL TOMPKINS SHIBLES, JULIA NEPTUNE DANA, SUSAN HAMMOND, JENNIFER NEPTUNE, BETSY TANNIAN, SHANNON SECORD, ERICA MENARD

Shannon Secord, left, with Theresa Secord, right. Photo by Peter Dembski

The Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program is a catalyst for many of us who are continuing the work. As an apprentice to Madeline Tomer Shay in 1990, I first became aware that after hundreds, perhaps thousands of years, our basket-making traditions were slipping away. At that time, I was one of only a dozen Maine Indians younger than the age of 50 who were practicing the tradition. Then, in 1993, Madeline Shay, my teacher, died. It was then that I began my own teaching in the program, determined not to watch traditional basket-making die." —Theresa Secord

Once an apprentice to the renowned Penobscot basketmaker Madeline Tomer Shay, Theresa Secord has gone on to be a master in her own right. Using blocks, molds and tools passed down from her great-grandmother, she continues to make beautiful ash and sweetgrass fancy baskets. Theresa Secord is also the founding Executive Director of the Maine Indian Basketmakers Alliance, an intertribal organization dedicated to the preservation of sweetgrass and brown ash basketry.

Don Roy, Franco Fiddling

APPRENTICES: ERICA BROWN, MATHEW LAMARE, MARY ELLEN ROLLINS

Don Roy

At the age of 15, Don Roy would often visit his uncle, Lucien Mathieu, the talented Franco fiddler. Mathieu would teach him a tune or two and let him borrow one of his fiddles so he could play music at family gatherings.

Today, Don Roy is considered the "dean" of New England Franco fiddling and is the recipient of many awards including an Individual Artist Fellowship from the Maine Arts Commission.

He has gone on to teach a whole new generation of Maine fiddlers including Erica Brown who is now teaching her own apprentices.

Pirun Sen, Cambodian Music

APPRENTICES: ANTHONY CHHEM, REBECCA SEN

Pirun Sen with Samaki Ensemble. Photo by Jere DeWaters

"We can do nothing without music." —Pirun Sen

As dedicated teachers, community historians and cultural advocates, master artists connect to their communities in multiple ways. Pirun Sen, who works for Portland's Office of Multilingual and Multicultural Programs, has always been an advocate for the cultural traditions of the Cambodian community of Portland. Prior to the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program, there were very few opportunities to learn Khmer classical music. The program made it possible for Pirun Sen to travel to Lowell, Massachusetts, to study with master Cambodian musicians Phan Bin and Chhay Kim. Pirun Sen has gone on to teach his own apprentices and helped organize the Samaki Ensemble, a musical group that performs regularly at Cambodian social and cultural events.

Normand Gagnon, Quebecois Button Accordion

APPRENTICES: VALERIE SMITH, LEROY LEBLANC, STEVE MUISE, MICHEL GIASSON

Normand Gagnon with apprentice Valerie Smith. Photo by Jere DeWaters

Normand Gagnon. Photo by Darren Setlow

As symbols of family heritage, cultural identity and artistic inheritance, traditional arts have much meaning for those who continue to practice them. Through apprenticeship, the master brings this heritage to life. For the past two decades, Normand Gagnon has taught several apprentices button accordion playing. Drawing on his rich repertoire of French-Canadian music, Normand is an important part of the Rumford community.

"Young people of Franco heritage do not seem to get the same exposure to this music as did those of the older generations.

Normand Gagnon is a skilled musician and a direct connection to French culture and to the music." —Valerie Smith

Molly Neptune Parker, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making

APPRENTICES: CHRISTOPHER NEPTUNE, GEORGE NEPTUNE

George and Molly Neptune Parker working together. Photo by Peter Dembski

Apprenticeships enliven communities by reshaping old forms into contemporary life. In the hands of the next generation, these traditions are passed on and strengthen an entire community's cultural heritage.

"Basket-making for me is about innovation and creativity within the context of a traditional art form. The functionality, the materials and the shapes have been a legacy for each generation. I honor that legacy and believe I have a responsibility to continue it, basing it always on our traditions and knowledge of literally thousands of years. Basket-making is an art that I believe I was born to do, much as my ancestors have done for thousands of years." —Molly Neptune Parker

Sylvia Gabriel, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making

APPRENTICES: NIKIA GABRIEL, JESSIE BOSTON, MARY K. DOWNING, MAE ANN POLCHES, GAL FREY

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Sylvia Gabriel, left, with Gal Frey, apprentice. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

"I want to teach what my mother and grandmother taught me; neatness and good construction. These are qualities of prime importance."—Sylvia Gabriel

The Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program acts as a kind of aquifer for traditional culture, nourishing elders and new generations of artists. Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Sylvia Gabriel taught many apprentices including Gal Frey, who in turn taught her sons Gabriel and Jeremy Frey. Continuing on their family heritage of basket-making, both young men are gifted traditional artists in their own right.

Maine Arts Commission Traditional Arts Apprenticeships

Watie J. Akins, Penobscot Music
James Neptune, Apprentice

Janice Attean, Penobscot Basketry
Esther Attean, Apprentice

Angela Barnes, Passamaquoddy Basket-making
Jodi Mcphail & Daryl McPhail, Apprentices

Phan Bin, Cambodian Music
Pirun Sen, Apprentice

Greg Boardman, Franco Music
Jasmine Chick, Apprentice

Benoit Bourque, Quebecois Step Dancing
Cynthia Larock, Apprentice

Eric Brown, Franco Fiddling
Christie Michaud, Apprentice

Dianne Campbell, Passamaquoddy Basketmaking
Nina Levesque & Carey Hood, Apprentices

Steve Cayard, Birch Bark Canoe-Making
David Moses Bridges, Apprentice

Doris Chapman, Passamaquoddy Basketmaking
Keya & Katie Smiley, Apprentices

John Connors, Batteaux Building
Dave Wylie & Chase Jackson, Apprentices

Thomas Cote, Acadian Wood Carving
Jessica Stackhouse, Traci Weathershed,
Ellyzabeth S. Bencivenga, Apprentices

Eunice Crowley, Penobscot Basket-Making
Carol Dana, Apprentice

Pamela Cunningham, Penobscot Basket-Making
Nichole & Ruth Johnson, Apprentices

Joan M. Dana, Wabanaki Bead Working & Regalia
S. Dana & B. Libby, Apprentices

Louis D. Dana, Wabanaki Basket-Making
Priscilla Dana, Apprentice

Barbara D. Francis, Penobscot Basket-Making
David Daigle, Jr. & Carol Binette

Clare B. Gabriel, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Roberta Richter & Joyce Tomah

Mary Mitchell Gabriel, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Lucille Mary Moore, Apprentice

Sylvia Gabriel, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Nikia Gabriel, Jessie Boston, Mary K. Downing, Mae
Ann Polches & Gal Frey, Apprentices

Normand Gagnon, Franco Button-box Accordion
Valerie Smith, Leroy LeBlanc, Steve Muise, Michel Giasson, Apprentices

Theresa Neptune Gardner, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Elizabeth Gardner, Nancy Socotomah, Shirley Cogswell,
Erin Barnes, Apprentices

Aron Griffith, Maliseet Birch bark work
Perla Beauford, Apprentice

Ben Guilmette, Franco Fiddling
Daniel & Stephen Guillemette, Tiwill Huvall, Veronica
Delcourt-Branch, Apprentices

Clara Neptune Keezer, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Paul "Rocky" Keezer, Cyril Francis, A. Keezer, M. Lola-
Nicholas, Kenny Keezer, Apprentices

Paul Keezer, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Elizabeth Neptune, Larry Robichaud, Apprentices

Bud Kluchnik, Canadian Head Yoke-Making
Shawn O'Donnel, Apprentice

Rachel LeBlanc, Acadian Singing
Lucie Ouellette, Lila Cancelarich, Apprentices

Cynthia LaRock, Franco Dancing
Donna Casavant, Gabriel Jacques, Jessie Gagne-Hall,
Apprentices

Ila LeGasse, Wabanaki Basket-Making
Jeanine Marie Martinez, Apprentice

Fred Legere, Franco Music
Adele St. Pierre, Joshua Anchors, Apprentices

Florence Rose Martin, Franco Singing
Andrew Cyr, Apprentice

Paul James Martin, Wabanaki Basket-Making
Richard Nadeau, Apprentice

Alberta Meader, Wabananki Basket-Making
I. Nicola, A. Paul, N. Loring, Apprentices

Delia Mitchell, Passamaquoddy Music
Tina Dana, Apprentice

Oscar Mokeme, Nigerian Healing Arts
Obi Mokeme, Apprentice

Peter Neptune, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Victoria Neptune, John Francis, Apprentices

Stan Neptune, Penobscot Root Club Carving
Joe Neptune, Apprentice

Christine Nicholas, Penobscot Basket-Making
Barbara Neptune, Apprentice

Fredrick B. Nicola, Sr., Penobscot Basket-Making
Frederick B. Nicola, Jr., Apprentice

Jerry Pardilla, Penobscot Music
John Bear Mitchell, Apprentice

Molly Neptune Parker, Passamaquoddy Basket-Making
Christopher & George Neptune, Apprentices

Dominic Polchies, Wabanaki Basket-Making
Robert Polchies, Apprentice

Douglas Protsik, Fiddling
Milo Stanley, Apprentice

Indhra Rajashekar, Bharathanatyam Indian Dance
Rangapriya Rajashekar, Apprentice

Rodney C. Richard, Sr., Wood Carving
Butch Richard, Apprentice

Don Roy, Franco Fiddling
Erica Brown, Mathew Lamare, Mary Ellen Rollins,
Apprentices

Ida Roy, Acadian Singing
Kenneth & Sarah Lee Roy, Apprentices

Teresa Sabatis, Beading
Sally Lindsay, Apprentice

Mary & Donald Sanipass, Micmac Basket-Making
Betty J. Phillips, Ethel Gotte, Apprentices

Wilfred Sanipass, Micmac Wood Carving
John Philbrook, Apprentice

Theresa Secord, Penobscot Basket-Making
Jill Tompkins Shibles, Julia Neptune Dana, Susan
Hammond, Jennifer Neptune, B. Tannian, Shannon
Secord, Apprentices

Pirun Sen, Cambodian Music
Rebecca Sen, Anthony C. Chen, Apprentices

Caron Shay, Penobscot Basket-Making
Briana Randall, Apprentice

Lawrence Shay, Penobscot Basket-Making
Caron Shay, Belinda Cote, Apprentices

Madeline Shay, Penobscot Basket-Making
Theresa Secord, Carol Dana, Barry Dana, Apprentices

Richard Silliboy, Micmac Basket-Making
Valentine Polchies, Apprentice

Blanch M. Sockabasin, Passamaquoddy Singing

Lola J. Sockabasin, Passamaquoddy Wood Carving
Glenna Levesque, Apprentice

David Surette, Acadian, Quebecois & Celtic music
Robert Sylvain, Apprentice

Brian J. Theriault, Snowshoe-Making
Glen Labbe, Apprentice

Paula Thorne, Penobscot Basket-Making
Emily Bell, Apprentice

Walter James Tomah, Maliseet Basket-Making
Fred Tomah, Apprentice

Bertha Voisine, Acadian Rug-making
7 apprentices sponsored by Maine Acadian Heritage Council

Mary Jane Zumbrunnen, Micmac Basket-Making
Marilyn Francis, Roxanne Shaw, Gail Engstrom,
Apprentices

LEFT TO RIGHT , TOP TO BOTTOM:

Shannon Secord, making a sweetgrass basket. Photo by Peter Dembski

Close-up of Watie Akin's drum. Photo by Peter Dembski

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Clara Keezer. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Cynthia Larock, left, dancing with Benoit Bourque. Photo by Jere DeWaters

Don Roy. Photo by Darren Setlow

Pirun Sen. Photo by Jere DeWaters

Normand Gagnon. Photo by Jere DeWaters

Close-up of Molly Neptune Parker. Photo by Peter Dembski

Basket by Molly Neptune Parker. Photo by Peter Dembski

Basket by Paula Thorne. Photo by Peter Dembski

Close-up of Molly Neptune Parker's basket. Photo by Peter Dembski

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Clara Keezer. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Basket by Theresa Secord. Photo by Peter Dembski

Master Passamaquoddy basketmaker Dianne Campbell. Photo by Cedric Chatterley

Normand Gagnon. Photo Darren Setlow

George Neptune. Photo by Peter Dembski

2x10

TWO TIMES TEN

Guidelines and information on the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship program are available:

www.mainearts.com

Maine Arts Commission

193 State Street

25 State House Station

Augusta, ME 04333-0025

207/287-2724